The diagram shows a 15-puzzle state on a 4x4 grid. The tiles are numbered 1 through 15, and there are 4 empty tiles (represented by squares with a black border and no number). The tiles are arranged as follows:

15	14	13	12
11	10	9	8
7	6	5	4
3	2	1

The empty tiles are located at positions (1,4), (2,4), (3,4), and (4,4) using 0-indexing from the top-left.
